Examples

Hitting, Blocking and Unsuccessful Catching

Flow of play

Chuck on the yellow team throws a ball at Alice on the blue team. That ball hits Alice, and then deflects toward Bob on the blue team. Bob blocks that ball high into the air with a ball that he is carrying. David on the blue team sees that ball and runs to attempt to catch that ball. David gains control of the ball in his hands while in mid-air, and lands one foot on the ground inside bounds first then his second foot outside of bounds.

Rules involved

Definitions, 25, 26, 36, 44, 45, 47.

Analysis

Following the flow of play, the ball thrown by Chuck becomes live due to rule 25.

That ball hits Alice and thus she becomes subject to rule 44, pending that ball becoming dead.

That live ball then hits Bob, but due to rule 45, if that live ball only hit the ball that Bob was holding then he is exempt from being rendered out via rule 44. Note that the ball that is being carried by Bob is considered a part of him as per rule 1.b.

That live ball is then grabbed by David who gains control of the ball in mid-air. Rule 47 is triggered, pending the conditions listed in 47.a.

David then lands with control of the ball with one foot in the court. The condition in 47.a is not yet triggered because David only has one point of contact in bounds.

David's second foot then lands outside of bounds. Because David's second point of contact is out of bounds, the condition in 47.a is never triggered and David's catch is not valid.

David is rendered out the instant he touches a surface outside the boundary, as in rule 36. Because the ball thrown by Chuck is in contact with David when he becomes dead, that ball becomes dead as per rules 26 and 2.b. This then completes the rule 44 and Alice is rendered out at this point in time.

Bob is never rendered out.

Disarm and Complex Catching

Flow of play

Chuck on the yellow team throws a ball at Alice on the blue team. Alice blocks that ball with a ball she is carrying, deflecting it toward her teammate Bob. In that process, the ball that Alice is carrying is knocked out of her hands and hits the ground. Bob dives for the ball to attempt the catch and holds on to the ball while in mid-air, then lands ball-first on to the ground within bounds maintaining control of the ball the whole time.

Rules involved

Definitions, 25, 27, 46, 47.

Analysis

Following the flow of play, the ball thrown by Chuck becomes live due to rule 25.

That ball hits Alice's ball that she is carrying, but because it is knocked out of her hands and hits the ground rule 46 is triggered. Alice is rendered out the instant her ball hits the ground.

Bob dives for that live ball thrown by Chuck and gains control of it in his hands in mid-air. At this point, the ball has become a part of the player as per rule 1.b.

The ball that Bob is now carrying is the first point of the contact with the ground within bounds. Because of rule 1.b, this is considered a part of the player and is no different than if any other part of Bob's body had been the first point of contact.

The instant that any other part of Bob's body touches the ground, the conditions in rule 47.a are triggered and the catch becomes valid. That ball becomes a dead ball as per rule 27 in the same instant. Chuck is rendered out as per rule 47.b in the same instant.

Unclear Hit and Timeout

Flow of play

Chuck on the yellow team throws a ball at Alice on the blue team. Alice dodges away from the ball, and the ball hits the ground immediately before bouncing and hitting Alice in the toes. Alice stops in her tracks and look at referee Peggy for confirmation if that was a hit, however Peggy has not made a call as she was watching another play occurring. Noticing the confusion, blue team coach Erin requests a timeout. While stopped and looking at Peggy, Eve on the yellow team throws a ball and hits Alice which then touches the ground. Referee Peggy then signals the start of a timeout with a whistle blast.

Rules involved

Definitions, 10, 25, 26, 44.

Analysis

Following the flow of play, the ball thrown by Chuck becomes live due to rule 25.

That ball then becomes a dead object the instant it hits the ground due to rule 26.

Alice is touched by a dead object, which does not trigger any rules and thus nothing happens.

Erin requests a timeout at this point, however the game play is not stopped and this request does not affect any live players or live balls currently in play.

The ball thrown by Eve is live due to rule 25, then hits Alice, and touches a dead object. Alice is rendered out due to rule 44.

Referee Peggy begins the timeout, and as per rule 10 only then is play suspended.

In this case, Alice is unquestionably out as she was hit and rendered out with a valid throw during play. It is the responsibility of the players to keep playing unless play has been stopped by a referee with a clear whistle blast.

It is also the responsibility of Alice to determine whether or not she has been hit. In this case, Alice needed to have made a decision whether or not the ball thrown by Chuck was live when it hit her. A referee may clarify a hit or not, but it is not the responsibility of the referee to enforce every hit on a player.

Entering Sudden Death

Flow of play

The time for the end of a set is being counted down by referee Peggy. At less than one second remaining, Chuck on the blue team throws a ball at Alice on the yellow team. Referee Peggy signals the start of Sudden Death with a loud whistle blast. Bob on the yellow team throws a ball at David on the blue team. Both Alice and David catch the balls thrown at them.

Rules involved

Definitions, 9.a.i, 25, 47, 53.

Analysis

Following the flow of play, the ball thrown by Chuck becomes live due to rule 25.

While that ball is still in the air, referee Peggy signals the transition to sudden death as per rules 9.a.1 and 53.

The ball thrown by Bob does not become live despite rule 25, because of rule 53.a.

Both Alice and David catch their balls at essentially the same time. This kind of play is allowed after referee Peggy's whistle blast through rule 53.b. Alice and David are simply reacting to the play as it was unfolding, despite acting after the whistle blast.

In this case, however, the ball thrown at Alice is a live ball because it was thrown before the whistle blast but the ball thrown at David is not live as above.

Alice makes a valid catch as per rule 47, and Chuck is rendered out.

Bob is not out, despite being caught at the same time as Chuck, because the ball he caught is not live.

Code of Conduct

Every player, coach, referee, ball retriever, and any other participant is expected to act with sportsmanship and conduct that upholds the integrity of the game. They are prohibited from the following:

- Fighting, attempting to assault another participant, or any uninvited physical contact
- Discriminatory comments on a person's sex, gender, sexual orientation, race, religion, creed, ethnicity, age, or any form of discrimination
- Taunting
- Throwing a ball at an opposing player despite having been clearly rendered out
- Intentionally inflicting pain or throwing a ball excessively hard at close distance at another player's face
- Excessive use of foul language
- Cheating
- Causing distraction to players on the court
- Kicking or spiking the ball

Misconduct during matches will lead to a YELLOW CARD or a RED CARD for the player.

Yellow cards act as a warning for the player for his/her conduct on court, and the team should be warned that 2 yellow cards for the team and the team will play one player short for the remainder of the match.

Red cards are for serious misconducts during the match, and may be given without prior warning to the offense. Should a player get a red card during a match, he/she is ejected from the match and the team will continue playing one player short for the rest of the match. The player receiving the red card shall further be suspended for his/her next match.

Two yellow cards to the same player in the same match, equate to a red card, and that player will be ejected from the match. A player receiving a yellow card in two consecutive matches will be suspended for his/her subsequent match.

A team is accountable for the actions of their team supporters and spectators.

If a team believes that their opponent or their supporters are unfairly interfering with the game, such team's captain may request that the referees issue a warning to the opposing team to discontinue the interfering behavior. If the behavior continues, the interfering team may be subject to penalty, including a YELLOW CARD or RED CARD. The referees shall have discretion as to whether the behavior does amount to interference and as to the appropriate penalty in the event a warning is issued but not heeded.
